Consent for Evaluation and/or Treatment

At Acadiana Pain & Performance we strive to provide the most advanced and effective treatment available for healing pain and improving performance. This often integrates highly advanced treatments including medical dry needling, electro-dry needling, manipulation of spinal or peripheral joints, and myofascial release of tissues, active release of muscles, and corrective movements or therapeutic exercises. These advanced treatments offer our patients a better way to heal, resolve pain and improve function. As with many advanced procedures they do carry the possibility of unwanted side effects that you should be made aware. The most common side effect of treatment is mild soreness or bruising that resolves within 24-48 hours. A very small percentage of patients (less than one percent) may experience more significant side effects. This is depending on the type of condition you have and how long you have had it.

With all manual therapies (massage, mobilization and manipulation) side effects of bruising; muscle, tendon, ligament strains, bone fracture or strain are all possible. The most serious risk with Dry Needling is accidental puncture of a lung (pneumothorax). If this were to occur, it may likely require a chest x-ray and no further treatment. It can occasionally result in a more severe puncture that could require hospitalization and further treatment. Other risks include injury to a blood vessel causing a bruise, infection, and/or nerve injury. In the very rare instance (from one in one million to one in ten million) serious neurological damage may occur as a result of this type of treatment.

We take every precaution in our diagnosis and treatment to minimize these unfortunate occurrences. Although we offer spinal manipulation with the utmost confidence in its proven benefits, you have the choice to decide not to have this type of treatment. There are other forms of treatment available to you here, including; soft tissue therapy, electrical therapy, and mobilization, among many others.

I have read this consent form and understand the risks involved in physical therapy and agree to fully cooperate, participate in all physical therapy procedures, and comply with the established plan of care.
